Reno Little Theater's Youth Workshop is a hands-on learning experience of what it takes to stage a production.

The meaning of it is self-confidence and teamwork.

RLT certainly deserves thanks for allowing the Workshop to exist.

However,

the biggest thank you of all goes to the kids of the Workshop and their parents.

Without them, no Workshop.

Even solo performances are not solo productions. It's a group effort from the start. So, thanks also to these folks for their sponsorship and/or their help-in-a-pinch:

"...love has a funny way,
and one cannot predict,
because of a flaw called Murphy's Law,
what kind of pieface trick
is trigger-set to trip you up with the oldest kind of shtick.
In the long run, it's up to those who are in love to say what sort of part a loving heart
might ultimately play."

--Fairy Godmother, in
"Cinderella: a tale told
slightly off the other wall"
